Dear Fellow Catholic,

Rather a shock wasn't it, a 2 to 1 vote in favor of allowing abortions in Ireland? There is still the fight over statutory prohibitions, but any politician would call that a mandate! Evidently, it was not the will of God that the protections of Ireland's constitution be upheld. It seems that a lot of prayers to save the unborn were not enough. What is required to hold our world together? What has become of the Faith of the Ancient Order of Hibernians?

Surely you've heard about the bishops of Chile resigning en masse, after a series of scandals involving clerical misconduct. Seriously, the bishops of an entire nation resigned at once? Are these bizarre times or what?

"So what now?" you may ask. One rumor going around is that St. Patrick is reported to have said that when Ireland loses the Faith, the end is near. Looking at the rising tide of uproar against all restraint -- rebellion from nature and nature's God and renewed attempts to enslave mankind, under the guise of deadly feminism, toxic gay rights or socialist compassionate slavery, can give you quite a start. It's a tough time to be innocent and peaceful. So what is the response of a faithful Catholic?

Nothing. Perhaps the right response is to do nothing different. Nothing has really changed. The world is still a place of fallen humanity. Steadfastly proclaiming the truth is what we have done for years. Steadfastly proclaiming the truth is what we must continue to do, right?

We're in the middle of finding a more specific tower site for our FM translator. We looked at some locations, but it now looks like we need to move slightly south. We are looking along Old Heady Road to the east of Routt Road. Despite a pretty good Radiothon, we are still short of the money needed to build. So there are two ways to help make progress toward an FM signal-- let us know if you have family or friends along Old Heady Road and share the need to everyone you know. Your personal sharing is far more effective than all the boring fundraising letters we could send! (-;

It is interesting how people are less interested in matters of religion these days. Openness to religion has seemed to decline rapidly in the last few years. Even so, there is a kind of joy found in merely not being burdened by some of the craziness. So let us be not afraid, but keep pressing on, running the race, as St. Paul says, striving for the crown of eternal life. Please keep praying for our Church, our nation and city, and for Holy Family Radio and please consider joining with us financially as we strive to increase the reach of Catholic radio in our area!

May God reward you!

Sincerely,

for Holy Family Radio
